Trajan married Pompeia PLOTINA sometime before Trajan's adoption by Nerva, but are not known to have had any children.

She conducted herself during the entire reign in such manner as to incur no censure. Plotina nevertheless showed some capacity for intrigue, encouraging Hadrian to to marry Trajan's niece against the emperor's wishes. According to another story, he forged documents after Trajan's death to prove that he had adopted Hadrian as his heir.
